This week in Collective Worship we brought together all of our thoughts on our Value for November of Justice.

The children really enjoyed watching some of our Year 6 children acting out the story of 'The Good Samaritan'.

Following the drama, the children enjoyed discussing which of the characters in the story showed the most justice. It was not long before we all realised that the people who you think would show justice, do not always do so.

On the staff room board this week has been a quote from Benjamin Franklin 'Justice will not be served until those who are unaffected are as outraged as those who are.'

It is a thought that has challenged us this week. It is a question we can reflect on, whether we are children or adults. Are we bothered by injustice, or only when it impacts us?

Where do we see ourselves in the story of 'The Good Samaritan'? Are we too busy, too important or too distracted to take action when there is injustice?

Our thinking this month has been very challenging and left us all wondering how we can be more like the good Samaritan in the story – seeing an injustice and doing what we can to change it.
